KING'S BODY LIES IN WESTMINSTER.

City Mourns as Procession Passes from Palace.

Removal Attended with Simplicity and Stately Pomp.

LONDON, May 17.—The body of King Edward VII, the peacemaker, was taken with stately pomp this morning from Buckingham Palace on the first stage of the journey to the grave, and now lies in state in Westminster Hall, where hundreds of thousands will pay a last tribute to the dead monarch before the final progress through the streets of the capital Friday.

The procession from Buckingham Palace to Westminster Hall passed through double lines of red-coated soldiers, flanked with rows of stalwart policemen and a mass of silent, black-garbed humanity. The buildings along the route were heavily draped with mourning. The embassies in Carlton House terrace were covered with funeral palls of black and purple, relieved occasionally by green wreaths and bouquets of white lilies.

The first intimation the crowd, which had been waiting for hours, had of the approach of the funeral procession was the booming of the first of 68 minute guns, which were fired at St. James Park, followed by the tolling of "Big Ben," the great clock in the tower of the House of Commons, which heretofore had been heard only as it struck the hour, and the roll of muffled drums. Then a Gaurdsman, with sword reversed, came down the Mall at measured tread, two other Guardsmen following close behind. Then came the officers of the headquarters staff, the army council and the board of admiralty. As these appeared the troops came to a half salute with reversed guns, and remained thus until Field Marshals Lord Roberts and Lord Kitchener of Khartoum, the admirals of the fleet, the Indian orderly officers in black uniforms and the aides-de-camp of the late king passed.

As the gun carriage on which the casket was borne approached, the order "Rest on your arms" was given sharply. With heads bowed the soldiers kept their eyes on the ground while the body of their late king passed by, coming to attention again for the royal standard, which was carried immediately behind the casket and in front of King George, who, like the officers and other members of royalty, was on foot.

The Duke of Cornwall and Prince Albert, two little figures in the natty uniforms of naval cadets, followed their father, King Frederick of Denmark and King Haakon, with the Duke of Connaught between them, came next, and then followed the other members of the British and foreign royal families in gorgeous uniforms, the only touch of mourning being the black bands on the sleeves of their coats. An array of officers of the late king's household, nearly all in bright uniforms, but a few in mourning dress, followed.

The greatest interest of the crowd was aroused at the approach of the first carriage, for in this rode the queen mother, Alexandra, to whom the hearts of all Britishers have gone out during the past week. Her Majesty, wearing the deepest mourning, had lifted her veil, and the people reverently raised their hats to the pathetic figure, who, even in the hour of her great grief, acknowledged the silent testimony of sympathy by bowing repeatedly. The queen mother was accompanied by her sister, Dowager Empress Marie of Russia, and her daughters, Princess Royal and Princess Victoria.

Queen Mary occupied the second state carriage, having for the occasion surrendered the first place, to which, as queen, she is entitled. Her Majesty was preceded by the sovereign's escort—the only mounted troops participating, with the exception of a few stationed along the route. Queen Mary was accompanied by her daughter, Princess Mary, and Prince Henry.

Seven other state carriages, drawn by caparisoned horses, carried the ladies of the royal families and the suites of the queen mother and the queen.

Arrived at the palace yard of Westminster, where a dense throngh had gathered, the gun carriage stopped; the palls were removed and the bearer company, composed of Life Guards, lifted the casket and carried it into the hall.

The dominating characteristic of the procession was the impressive simplicity. There were 12,000 troops on foot and mounted, and 12,000 sailors along the route, but in the procession itself the largest body of uniformed men was the massed bands of the Guards regiment, numbering 250, under Lieutenant Morgan, the senior bandmaster of the British army, which played funeral marches. On leaving Buckingham Palace a corps of 50 drums played a special introduction, at the conclusion of which the massed bands took up Beethoven's "Funeral March." The most striking feature of the music was provided by a body of 40 pipers, who struck up "Flowers of the Forest" as the procession passed Marlborough House, the music bringing tears to the eyes of many in the great crowd. During the Horse Guards parade the band played Chopin's "March Funebre," and as the procession approached Westminster Hall the strains of Handel's "Dead March from 'Saul'" were heard.

It was a gloomy morning, clouds hiding the sun, in striking contrast with the brightness of the past few days. The spectacle at Westminster Hall during the brief services when the casket was deposited there was a solemn and moving picture of deep the purple catafalque in the centre of the hall, covered with a white and gold-embroidered pall and draped with the royal ensign. On the ensign at the head were placed the jeweled crown, the orb and scepter.

King George stood at the foot of the casket with the queen mother, Queen Mary and the young princes. Behind them were the members of royalty who had followed the body and a group of 20 royal ladies in deep black with long veils, no touch of color relieving their sombre garb.

Around this body were stationed the officers of the court of the royal household, the earl marshal, Black Rod, Silver Stick and others, in their brilliant uniforms. In long rows on

ATTENDS TO CORRESPONDENCE.

Roosevelt Does Not Participate in Ceremony of Removing the Body.

LONDON, May 17.—Mr. Roosevelt, special American ambassador to the funeral of King Edward, did not participate today in the ceremony attending the removal of the body from Buckingham Palace to Westminster Hall. Mrs. Roosevelt, Miss Roosevelt, Kermit, American Ambassador Reid and Mrs. Reid witnessed the procession from a house in Carlton House terrace, but Mr. Roosevelt spent the morning answering his accumulated correspondence.

Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt concluded the morning hours yesterday with a round of formal calls. They called on Crown Prince and Crown Princess Christian of Denmark, the Duke and Duchess of Argyll, Princess Henry of Battenberg and the Duchess of Fife, and at Buckingham Palace inscribed their names in the visiting books of Dowager Empress Marie of Russia, Russian Grand Duke Michael Alexandrovitch, King Haakon and Queen Maud of Norway.

The Roosevelts had but just returned to Dorchester House when they received a return call from King Haakon, who greeted the special ambassador and his wife as old friends. While luncheon was being served the Duke of Connaught and Prince Arthur of Connaught called.

Mrs. Roosevelt went to Buckingham Palace again in the afternoon and paid a visit to Queen Maud.

Mr. Roosevelt's throat still bothers him. It was examined yesterday by Dr. St. Claire Thompson, the throat specialist who attended King Edward during his last illness. Dr. Thompson prescribed further treatment for Mr. Roosevelt.

The Roosevelts dined quietly with Ambassador and Mrs. Reid and members of the embassy staff with their wives at Dorchester House.

Sydney Chas. Buxton, president of the Board of Trade, called on Mr. Roosevelt this morning. Mr. Roosevelt spent most of the afternoon in the formal return of calls. He has not as yet seen Seth Bullock, deputy United States marshal in South Dakota, who is now in London, nor does he know where the latter is stopping. He presumes the deputy will hunt him up later.

EXPLANATION OF TAFT ON RECORD.

Kerby's Feelings Toward Ballinger Friendly.

Would Give Brandeis Idea of Man He Is Up Against.

WASHINGTON, May 17.—President Taft's explanation of the circumstances under which his letter exonerating Secretary Ballinger from the Glavis charges and dismissing L. R. Glavis was prepared, was presented by Chairman Nelson to the Ballinger-Pinchot investigating committee when the hearing was resumed today. It will be printed as a part of the record of the committee. Attorney Brandeis, counsel for Glavis, has laid great emphasis on the President's letter of exoneration and dismissal, contending that the memorandum on which it was based was prepared in Secretary Ballinger's department by Assistant Attorney General Lawler. The President, in a letter which he addressed to Senator Nelson last Sunday, says he had the Lawler memoranda before him when he prepared his communication, but he also had notes and memoranda given him by the Attorney General, who had agreed with the President in the conclusion he had reached in the matter.

Wells Commissioner Dennett of the General Land Office was under cross-examination last Saturday Mr. Brandeis indicated that he intended to raise the question why the Lawler memoranda had not been furnished with the other papers bearing on the case which the President had sent to the committee. A carbon copy of the Lawler memoranda was furnished the committee by Attorney General Wickersham coincident with the publication of the statement of Frederick M. Kerby, then a stenographer in Mr. Ballinger's office, that he had assisted Mr. Lawler in preparing the document, and that it was similar in many respects to the President's letter. Mr. Wickersham sent an explanatory letter to the effect that the document had been overlooked in previous searches of the department files. It is expected that Mr. Brandeis will endeavor to locate the original memoranda.

Frederick M. Kerby, formerly a stenographer in Mr. Ballinger's office, who was dismissed yesterday on the ground that he divulged confidential information bearing on the preparation of the Lawler memoranda, was called to the stand soon after the hearing began.

After Chairman Nelson had laid the President's letter to him before the committee, Mr. Brandeis said he thought Mr. Kerby's statement of the President's denial of last Saturday should go into the record with it. Mr. Nelson said that no statement of Kerby was before the committee, whereupon Mr. Brandeis said Mr. Kerby was present and was willing to testify.

Mr. Kerby appeared calm and confident when he took his seat on the stand. Mr. Vertrees, counsel for Mr. Ballinger, questioned him about the position he held in the Interior Department.

"You were a confidential clerk to Mr. Ballinger, were you not?"

"I felt myself a confidential clerk to the government," replied Kerby, "rather than to Mr. Ballinger."

Taking up the subject of Kerby's statement, Mr. Vertrees asked him if he had ever before given out confidential information.

"I have never considered it necessary before," was the reply.

Kerby said he was friendly to Mr. Garfield, and had exchanged one or two letters with the latter since he left the government service. He said he had met Garfield at the home of Clifford Pinchot, between the tenth and fifteenth of February, and had told him about the preparation of the Lawler memoranda. He said Mr. Brandeis also was present, and he related the matter to him in detail.

Kerby first mentioned the matter to Hugh A. Brown, formerly private secretary to Mr. Garfield, who is now private secretary to Director Durand of the Census Bureau, a few days after President Taft gave out his letter exonerating Secretary Ballinger. He said he had met Brown in his office, and the latter had asked him what he knew about the President's letter. After Kerby had told Garfield the storythe latter told him he did not want him to endanger his position, and would not have him called as a witness until it was necessary.

Mr. Denby: "Why did you assume that giving testimony would necessitate your dismissal?"

Mr. Kerby: "I knew what happened to Glavis."

Asked if he had mentioned the thing to any one else, Mr. Kerby said he spoke of it to Perry Arnold, a friend, who, he said, expressed surprise that the President should have been able to prepare his letter in such a short time after the facts had been laid before him. He said he told the newspaperman in confidence, and that the latter had observed the confidence.

Mr. Kerby said he gave his statement to Robert P. Wilson, a Cleveland newspaper man, who had been introduced to him a week ago Sunday night by this newspaper friend.

"You knew all these people were unfriendly to Ballinger?" inquired Mr. Vertrees.

"I did not."

"You knew they were friendly to Garfield?"

"Of course they were."

Mr. Vertrees asked the witness if he had mentioned any other matters at the meeting at Pinchot's home.

Kerby replied he told Brandeis, after Garfield left, that he knew Ballinger intended, when he became Secretary to remove Director Newell of the reclamation service and appoint in his stead Robert H. Thomson of Seattle.

Kerby said his feelings toward Ballinger personally were friendly; that the latter had always treated him like a son. He insisted that he did not consider there was any impropriety in what he did. He had no motive in mentioning the Newell matter except as a matter of current information. "I simply wanted to give Mr. Brandeis an idea of the character of the man he was up against."

Chairman Nelson asked Kerby concerning his statement that he was not worried about losing his place.

COMMERCE COURT APPROVED.

Senate Adopts It as Provision of the Railroad Bill.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—The court of commerce provision of the railroad bill became a fixture today, the Senate adopting it by a plurality of nine after Senator Cummins had led an all-day fight against that feature of the President's pet measure. The House having voted already in favor of the commerce court, the matter is definitely settled, whatever may be the fate of other provisions which have provoked sharp contests.

The vote was obtained on a motion by Senator Cummins to strike out the entire six sections providing for the establishment of the court, the result being in the negative, 28 to 37.

The entire negative vote was cast by Republicans, although eight Republicans voted with the Democrats in support of the motion. The affirmative Republican votes were cast, except in the cases of Senators Borah and Crawford, only by the most pronounced of the "Insurgents," Messrs. Beveridge, Bristow, Clapp, Cummins, Dolliver and La Follette.

The action was a distinct triumph for the regular Republican organization and was the first fruit of recent efforts to solidify the administration forces so as to insure the accomplishment of the administration program.

After this action Mr. Bacon presented an amendment substituting the United States circuit courts for the court of commerce in the trial of commerce cases, but it was voted down without division.

A negative fate also met an amendment by Mr. Cummins reducing the membership of the court from five to three.

Upon this Mr. Cummins offered amendments modifying his substitute for the stock and bond provisions and substituting for the United States the Interstate Commerce Commission as defendant in cases in the court of commerce involving orders of the commission. Neither was disposed of during the day.

This being unanimous consent and suspension day in the House, a large number of bills were passed. Among the more important ones was a Senate bill providing for a system of parole for United States prisoners sentenced for more than one year who have served at least one third of their terms.

A resolution introduced by Mr. Henry of Texas to change the date of inauguration of the President and Vice President from March 4 until the last Thursday in April was defeated.

WRECKED BY A WHALE.

Crew of Ship Which Harpooned the Monster Barely Escapes.

JUNEAU, Alaska, May 16.—Whaler Sorenson, owned by the Tyee Whaling Company of San Francisco, was wrecked by a blow from the tail of a harpooned whale off Cape Ommaney last Thursday, according to news received today. The Sorenson sank in four minutes, the crew having barely time to escape in boats.

The Sorenson harpooned a large whale, which, after racing with the rope, turned about and headed for the vessel. Passing under the stern, the whale delivered a blow with its tail and smashed in the hull. The crew struggled to shore and built a signal fire. The next night they were taken up by a passing vessel. The whale was afterward found floating dead.

MIDDLETOWN.

Road Improvements Under Way and Oil Ready to be Applied Immediately.

[Regular correspondence of the News.]

The regular session of the town council and court of probate was held at the town hall Monday afternoon, all the members being present.

Arthur W. Chase and William B. Hunter, the committee appointed to act in conjunction with the Board of Aldermen of Newport in repairing the bridge in Second and First Beach avenues, on the dividing line of Middletown and Newport, reported that the bridge had been entirely re-covered with hard-pine plank and crushed stone deposited on both sides, to make the approach convenient, and that passage over the bridge had been greatly improved.

Arthur W. Chase, the committee appointed to construct a stone roadbed on the westerly end of the highway, extending from Sachuest beach around by the Hanging Rocks, reported that the first layer of stone had nearly all been applied and some of the second layer.

Arthur W. Chase, the committee appointed to purchase oil for preserving the surface of the stone roadbeds, reported that he had purchased of the Standard Oil Company of New York 100 barrels of standard asphalt road oil, containing 4,919 gallons, for $322-19. The oil was shipped from Bayonne, N. J., and arrived in Newport Saturday. Teams were engaged in transporting the oil to the shed on the town house lot and the immediate application to the stone roadbeds had been arranged.

William B. Hunter was authorized to expend not to exceed $500 in constructing a section of stone road on Green End avenue, against the Robinson P. Barker farm, and Francis J. Coggeshall was authorized to expend not exceeding $800 in building a stone road in Oliphant lane, opposite land of the heirs of Daniel Chase.

The following accounts were allowed and ordered paid from the town treasury: For highway repairs, Elmer B. Sisson, $81.05; William S. Caswell, $60.52; Daniel A. Carter, $133.75. For crushed stone, Peckham Brothers for district No. 2, $24.66; district No. 3, $223.36. Joseph P. Cotton, for building drives at town hall and grading grounds, $215.20; Stephen W. Coggeshall, lawn implements, $1.45; Old Colony Street Railway Company, electric light, $1.96; Arthur A. Brigham, services as janitor at town hall, $7.50; William S. Caswell, carting and applying gravel to paths in front of town hall, rolling lawn and other work on the grounds, $13.75.

Puny Pokross of Fall River, was granted a wagon license, for collecting junk.

In court of probate Daniel Beard was appointed administrator de bonis non with the will annexed on the estate of Nathan T. Van Alstyne and required to give bond in the sum of $1,400, with the American Bonding Company of Baltimore as surety. For appraisers, William R. Harvey, George Eckhert and Bessie F. Stanhope were appointed.

The petitions of Laura Wistar Brigham, to file and record exemplified copies of the wills of Susan Wallace and Elleralie Wallace, were granted.

The petition of Abbie A. Barker and Sarah M. Albro to appoint Albert A. Anthony administrator on the estate of Abraham Anthony, was referred to the third Monday in June, with an order of notice.

The town council has contracted with Dr. Francis P. Conway of Portsmouth to vaccinate such of the inhabitants of the town as may apply. Dr. Conway will visit the schools Thursday and Friday of this week and during the first of next week.

NEW PLAN TO BE OPERATED.

Congress May Give Secretary Meyer Authority to Try His Re-Organization System.

There is still a pretty good chance that Congress will give Secretary of the Navy Meyer, authority to try his re-organization plan for one year in order to demonstrate its worth. While the House naval committee is not ready to give its approval to the plan it is strongly in favor of granting Mr. Meyer's request for permission to try it out and has decided to press the matter in a new form.

The authorization to the Secretary to interchange the appropriations of the various bureaus of the Navy Department as he sees fit, in order to put his plan into operation with the least possible difficulty, was included in the naval appropriation bill by the House committee, but it went out on the floor on a point of order by Representative Richmond Pearson Hobson of Alabama. Much to Mr. Meyer's disappointment the Senate naval committee declined to report the provision as a part of the bill.

There is now on the House calendar a separate bill to grant this authority, which has been there for some weeks. The committee proposes to make a strong effort to pass this, and several of the members said they had the necessary votes. If the House acts favorably on the bill an effort will be made by Mr. Meyer's friends to have it passed by the Senate. Should the House act before the Senate passes the naval appropriation bill the other proposition may be offered as an amendment on the floor.

COMMUTERS TO FIGHT HARD.

The protest which has been made against the proposed raise in commutation rates by the New Haven railroad to Westchester points from New York has resulted in counsel being retained to carry on the fight in behalf of Mount Vernon. Almost every civic club in Mount Vernon has held meetings during the last week protesting against the increase, and it was decided by all of them to have counsel represent them and to push the fight through all the courts.

ECZEMA—A GERM DISEASE CAN NOW BE CURED.

The Medical profession is all agreed that ECZEMA is a germ disease, but the thing that has baffled them is to find some remedy that will get to the germs and destroy them.

The whole method of treatment and cure by ZEMO is explained in an interesting book on the subject issued by the makers of ZEMO. It tells how to cure yourself at home of Eczema, Blackheads, Pimples, Dandruff and all diseases of the skin and scalp. Call at Jno. M. TESTS AT FORT OMAHA.

Government to Send Up Meteorological to Determine Composition of the Comet's Tail.

If it is possible to accomplish the feat Uncle Sam is going to discover and determine the composition of the tail of Halley's comet. And he is going to do it at the Fort Omaha balloon station, the only place in the United States where experiments of the kind will be conducted.

The work will be in charge of W. R. Gregg and C. S. Wood, meteorological experts, who have arrived from Washington and will be assisted by local officers of the Fort Omaha station. Balloons will be used for the purpose of ascertaining the specific gravity, if there is any in the comet's tail, and they will also be used in determining what kind of gases, if any, the celestial visitor is dragging along in its wake.

Professor Gregg selects Fort Omaha as the point for making the observation on account of the government having an immense hydrogen gas plant where the balloons can be inflated and also by reason of the further fact that Fort Omaha is a long distance from any large body of water. Thus balloons sent up will be almost certain to fall upon land, and it will be an easy matter to return the records here or forward them to the War Department at Washington.

May 18, 19 and 20 are designated by Professor Gregg as "comet days," these days covering a period of time when the tail of the Halley comet will be sweeping the earth. During these three days the professor and his assistants will be busy men prying into the comet and its tail.

Each day 20 hydrogen balloons will be sent up, with a flock of extra ones ascending each morning and evening. It is hoped to inflate the ballons so that some of them may reach a height of 15 miles, and possibly 20. In doing this the professor believes he will be able to touch the tail of the comet at numerous places and thus learn of its consistency.

Each balloon sent up by Professor Gregg will be equipped with delicate apparatus. There will be a self-registering instrument that will tell the story of the temperature; another that will measure and record in a way the density of the matter contained in the tail of the comet, and still another that will gather and bring back samples of a certain air pressure. This latter instrument is in the nature of a self-filling bottle. It is so constructed that it will close at another pressure. This air, when brought back to earth, will be separated into its component parts.

OLD VESSEL USED AS TARGET.

New Soft-Nose Naval Shells Fired at Ram Katahdin in An Attempt to Sink It.

A bit of naval warfare took place Monday on the Potomac river at Indian Head, Va., when the old ram Katahdin, which was stricken from the navy list last year, received her baptism of fire. It was not the fire of an enemy, but it was aimed at her with every intention of sinking her, if possible.

Having outlived her usefulness as a fighting vessel, the curious naval vessel was clothed in modern 12-inch, high-grade armor plate, and a dozen ordnance experts directed the attack on her with the new soft-nose naval shell hurled through a big 12-inch gun. Anchored at a distance of about five miles the Katahdin served to assist the naval experts in ascertaining whether the new shell can be deflected when it strikes at any angle, or whether it would bite into the armor plate as the naval officers anticipated. Unfortunately for the public the Navy Department conducted the experiment with all possible secrecy.

OUR UNIFORMLESS PRESIDENTS.

[Boston Transcript.]

The discussion in the press of what costume Mr. Roosevelt may, can, will or should wear as special ambassador of the United States at the funeral of King Edward emphasizes the extension of our "republican simplicity" to the habiliments of Presidents. Though the President of the United States is commander-in-chief of the army and navy, he wears no uniform indicative of the fact. The law does not forbid, but custom based on our constitutional maxim that the civil power is superior to the military frowns on the suggestion even of a President in epaulets. So commanding is the influence of this maxim that even military Presidents like Taylor and Grant who entered the White House from the army never wore anything but civilian clothes during their administration, though the custom of courtesy might have justified them as ex-officers in appearing in uniform on purely military occasions. Roosevelt wore his Rough Rider uniform at the review at Berlin, but apart from his being a law unto himself at times, he may have thought that in a great military monarchy, civilian garments on such an occasion might be construed as absence of that free masonry of soldiership to be expected of one with his record.

ETIQUETTE IN PARLIAMENT.

[Manchester Guardian.]

The gentleman who shouted "Down with the Lords!" in the Strangers' Gallery of the House of Commons and was promptly hustled out was probably surprised by the swiftness with which the punishment followed the offense. The attendants who shepherd strangers in the galleries keep their flocks under incessant observation, and have many minor vagaries to deal with besides the serious ones such as that of the night in question. It is a very common thing for a "stranger," bored by some dull speaker in the House, to produce a newspaper from his pocket, spread it out on his knee and begin to read. In a few seconds he will find himself nudged by his neighbor, and looking along the row of fellow-strangers he will see that the attendant has set all the elbows working and is signalling imperatively for the immediate removal of the newspaper from sight. Newspapers are forbidden even to members of the House.

Occasionally a stranger is so impressed by his surroundings that he forgets to remove his hat. The peers in the gallery have to take off their hats, and a noble earl was publicly reminded of the rule a session or two ago. The clapping of hands, though a graver offense than these, is often more difficult to bring home to the offender, and when it occurs the attendants often fail to detect who was the culprit in the long rows of almost unnaturally innocent-looking gentlemen, whom they scrutinize with fiercely questioning eye. Consequently the offender sometimes escapes. Very different was the fate of the Indian gentleman who two or three years ago dressed himself in all his splendor and stood up, almost the solitary occupant of the gallery, to address the astounded House. His speech was cut wonderfully short.

PERSONALS.

....William E. Hudson of Bartlett, Patten & Co., grain brokers, of Chicago, was held by the federal grand jury for refusing to give information to a census enumerator. He would not tell the enumerator whether he or his wife owned their home.

....King Alfonso, while on his way to London to attend the late King Edward's funeral, stopped off at Bordeaux for three hours to undergo an examination at the hands of Dr. Moure, who operated on his nose some years ago. The physician pronounced the king's health excellent, and the king proceeded on his journey.

....After a conference with President Taft at the White House Secretary Nagel of the Department of Commerce and Labor has announced that he will make a two months trip to the Northwest and to Alaska, leaving Washington the latter part of June. The Secretary will look into immigration matters at Portland and Seattle, while his trip to Alaska will have special reference to the salmon fisheries.

....Gustav H. Schwab, representative in America of the North German Lloyd line, has suffered from a nervous breakdown, and is at present recuperating in the country. Mr. Schwab, besides his arduous duties as head of the steamship line in this country, is interested in woolen manufacturing and connected with various civic organizations and philanthropic enterprises. His manifold activities, added to the fact that Mrs. Schwab has been ill for some time brought on insomnia, and the sleepless nights combined with busy days seriously affected his nervous system.

WILL-O'-THE-WISP.

[Cecil Cavendish in St. Nicholas.]

A marshy meadow—a quiet pond—
A lonely road—and a hill beyond.
In the reedy marsh below the hill,
On starlight nights when the air is still,
Where rushes and cresses grow green and crisp,
There goes, dancing, Will-o'-the-Wisp,
Will-o'-the-Wisp so gay.

We see the gleam of his lantern bright
Flitting about in the quiet night,
He balances on the cattail tops,
Then to the rustling reeds he drops,
And reeds to the rushes will softly lisp,
"Here comes, dancing, Will-o'-the-Wisp,
Will-o'-the-Wisp so gay."

The east grows gray at the touch of dawn,
Presto! Will-o'-the-Wisp is gone.
For the morning wind blows out his light—
He'll dance again on another night,
When crickets are chirping in grasses crisp,
Then we'll watch for Will-o'-the-Wisp,
Will-o'-the-Wisp so gay.

Those who have tried all three kinds, prefer Clicquot Club, because it lacks the burning sting in other ginger ales, caused by the red pepper, and because its quality and taste are undeniably superior.

The best fresh ginger and the best sugar (not saccharine) are used in Clicquot Club, with a dash of pure citric fruit flavor. The water (Clicquot Spring water) is the best ginger ale water in the world; and the carbonating and bottling is perfect.

THE HEIGHT OF AWNINGS.

As the season is on for the putting up of awnings for the summer, attention is called to the fact that many of the new ones are at heights well under the legal distance from the sidewalk. Many of the old awnings are going back as they were, at the right distance to knock off the hats of tall people. In one case an awning which measures 6 feet 6 inches to the frame, with the apron hanging below that, was in position all last year. A new idea which seems to be growing is to have a side piece to an awning, which materially encroaches upon the sidewalk in its effort to prevent side rays of sunlight from shining in at a window.

In some cases the police speak to the owners and in some they do not, but no changes seem to be enforced if a merchant does not heed the first notice. The law is an old one, and now that the building law is being enforced there is a movement to see if the police cannot attend to the awnings and other obstructions to the sidewalks which come within their jurisdiction. Some of the patrolmen say they used to put such things on their books, but since they found that no notice was taken of their reports they have saved the trouble of writing.

RAISING RATS AND MICE.

Perhaps one of the oddest ways of earning money for a woman at least, is that of raising rats and mice for use in laboratory work. The woman who conducts what she terms her mouse farm is one of the few of her sex who have a liking for the little creatures, and claims that the work is not only enjoyable but profitable as well. These animals give their lives for the advancement of science, nearly all of them being used for experiments in the study of tuberculosis and cancer. They are artificially infected and the diseases studied by observation, vivisection and other methods used by scientists in helping toward the eventual victory of humanity over disease. Mice are used in the greatest number because they are the cheapest, 100 of them selling for $15, while rats bring when full grown about 25 cents each. It, as is sometimes the case, one should develop of itself a case of cancer or other disease, it is worth a fancy price to the owner, as the scientists are always eager to obtain one of this kind. They also prefer, other things being equal, the pure white or very light-colored mice, as this shade makes it possible to mark a distinguishing number on the animal's fur.

The rats and mice live about two years in an average and the owner claims that this business, like nearly every other kind, has some of the precariousness of the stock market. It is profitable when the demand is good, but with a good demand prices go up and speculators go into the business, and then the mouse market becomes over-crowded and the prices fall. The demand weakens now and then, so that sometimes the stock must be kept quite a long time, eating up the profits. In the long run this woman claims that it is a much pleasanter way of earning one's livelihood than many of the occupations which women are taking up, besides being much more profitable.

Some of the mice and also a few of the rats are sold at times as pets, for strange as it may seem to some there are people in this world who prefer these little animals to any other kind to pet and fondle, when they would not think of having a dog, a cat or even a bird in the house. The majority are raised and sold in the cause of science, and it would seem as if this was the best use which could be made of them, as it is claimed, and it would seem rightly, that a dead mouse or rat is better under most circumstances than a live one.

This woman's venture in starting a mouse farm is an unusual thing, but it is safe to say that it is an occupation in which she will have so far as most women are concerned a clear field. The fear of mice and rats is part of the average woman's nature, though why she herself cannot tell, and the woman who has a liking for them and is willing to give her time and attention to breeding and raising them for the scientists deserves all the money she can make from the business and need not fear competition from many of her own sex.

As mouse farming is an occupation which will not appeal to many, there should be good profits in it for those who care to take up the business, as more and more of these animals are being used in the laboratories all over the country and the demand for them is on the increase as science goes further into the study of disease. It is well, therefore, that there are people who enjoy the business and are willing to earn their livelihood in this way, but the majority of people, even women at least, prefer a business where rats and mice are an unheard of quantity, or at least are so secreted that their presence is never suspected. Mouse farming as an occupation stands by itself and the field, unlike many new ventures, will probably never be over-crowded.

CONDITIONS AT THE BLAST FURNACES.

The investigation made by the federal commissioner of labor into the conditions under which men work at Bethlehem has resulted in shocking disclosures, the more so because they are not peculiar to Bethlehem but prevail through the iron and steel industry. Two years ago an unofficial investigation was made of labor conditions in Pittsburg and showed facts which ought not to exist anywhere, least of all in this country where it is our boast that labor is well paid and lives under better conditions than anywhere else in the world.

The hours are long and the labor heavy in all parts of the iron and steel industry and the work is performed in an exhausting heat and with peculiar exposure to severe accidents, but in the operation of blast furnaces conditions are worse than elsewhere. The work of the furnaces being continuous, it goes on day and night, Sundays and week-days, and only two shifts of men are employed. The men work 84 hours a week, 72 hours one week and 96 hours the next. The night shift of one week becomes the day shift of the next, and to effect the change without the employment of more men one shift every two weeks works 24 hours.

Mr. Schwab, owner of the Bethlehem concern, admits that the conditions are not what they ought to be, but thinks they are inevitable under present competition. Yet there is less competition in the iron and steel industry than in most others. In the first place, there is the United States Steel Corporation which controls more than half the producing capacity of the country, and the rest of the plants are in comparatively few hands. The business is not like that of the manufacture of clothing where small capital is enough and many men go into it. It is in the hands of a comparatively small number of great corporations, who enjoy substantial benefits from the protective tariff which the country sustains under the impression that the benefit goes to the working classes. Twelve hours a day seven days in the week for 3,000 men in Bethlehem alone, for a dollar and a half a day, does not support this view.

SOCIALISM IN MILWAUKEE.

The Socialists have had control of municipal affairs in Milwaukee less than four weeks, and in that time have established a municipal plumber's shop, free legal advice to the poor, a better trolley service and increased hours of leisure for city employes. Mayor Seidel has failed in but one particular in his program, that of giving washerwomen free city water; the city attorney, himself a Socialist, has overruled this on the ground that it would be class legislature.

Other objects which the Socialists hope to adopt are a free municipal ice plant, free dancing in the public schools, one official to take the place of four constituting the board of public works, and the naming of a competent health officer whose first duty it shall be to clean the slums. The use of the school halls for public dances is one of the most unique projects in the list, but it is proposed to overcome the evils of the Saturday night dances, which are usually conducted near saloons—and are declared by the chief of police to have been the cause of more degradation to the young, boys and girls alike, than any other thing in the city. The Socialists have mapped out an ambitious course, and say they have only begun their list of reforms.

The attempt to change the date of the inauguration of the President of the United States from March 4 to the last Thursday in April has again failed, in the House of Representatives, 139 members voting in favor and 70 in opposition. The law requires a two-thirds vote to approve, and the affirmative was just one third of a vote short of the requisite number. This will be a great disappointment to the people of the District of Columbia, who had been looking forward to augmented inauguration crowds, lured by the prospect of better weather than March usually affords; and also a disappointment to many others in various parts of the country, who would plan to go to Washington if they could be reasonably assured more spring-like weather, in the last week of April.

The National Association of Manufacturers has given its approval to a radical change in the immigration laws by the adoption of a provision that it shall be lawful to import skilled labor when the person importing cannot obtain laborers of like kind in this country who will work for him at the rate of wages prevailing generally in this country for such labor." This is regarded as the most advanced attack yet made by the association in its conflict with the labor unions. The latter have had laws made for them in the past, and why should not the manufacturers? Either is class legislation, and one class deserves as much as the other.

Rev. Courtland Myers, pastor of Tremont Temple, Boston, presents to the Baptists of Rhode Island a hopeful view of the future. He says that within the next decade or so the Christian business men of this country will give their millions, not for education or for philanthropy, but for the evangelization of the world. "That is the tendency in every direction," he says "It is to be seen on every hand."

The astronomers and other savants are unanimous in the statement that when the earth passes through the tail of Halley's comet the earth, and the people on it, will not know it has been touched. So we can go to sleep in peace as usual Wednesday night, with never a fear of accidents out of the ordinary.

Senator Chamberlain of Oregon says "the greatest mistake President Taft has made is that he takes the Republican platform too seriously. No President ever did that before." This means that the President is honest and believes others are honest, and he will lose none of the respect of the country on that account.

It begins to look as though a certain local happening during the past winter was something more than a mere splash, and as if somebody might be thoroughly immersed by the waves of public opinion and of official investigation.

The Michigan Democrats have come out in favor of Governor Judson Harmon of Ohio for the Presidential nomination in 1912, with Mayor Gaynor of New York as second choice. Bryan is not even mentioned.

This is a different kind of weather.

Are you looking for the comet?

THE JUNE MAGAZINES.

The Outing Magazine for June catches the June spirit. The leading feature is "In the Caribou Country," illustrated by the author, Belmore Browne. Real sport for the fisherman is found in "Deep Sea Fishing with the Fly Rod," by Stephen Chalmers, "Fishing for Mountain Trout," by Samuel G. Camp, and "Casting for Muskellunge," by Louis Rhead. There is expert advice covering nearly every phase of outdoor life. "Teaching Her to Shoot," by Percy M. Cushing; "A Good Way to Cook Trout," by Bannister Merwin; "About Making Gardens," by E. P. Powell; "Driving an Automobile with Brains," by Robert Sloss; "Making the Motor Boat Pay Its Board," by Lawrence DuRue, and "Hackwoods Surgery and Medicine," by Dr. Charles S. Moody.

The fiction in the number is interesting—"The Poetic Justice of Uko San," by James Oliver Curwood, "Two on the Trail," by Hulbert Footner; not forgetting C. E. Van Loan's contribution for base ball enthusiasts, "Making Good in the Big League." The whole issue is illustrated with excellent outdoor photographs.

In the June number of Popular Mechanics Magazine the plans and details for constructing M. Santos-Dumont's successful monoplane, the "Demoiselle," are given. Another feature is a description by Francis Bazell of the world's largest gymnasium at Northwestern University. The indoor field in this building provides sufficient space for a base ball diamond, and left and centre fields. H. H. Windsor in his editorial discusses the opportunities available to the American boy at the West Point military academy, and a waterways demonstration in which the channel is not deepened to conform to the craft, but the freighters are built after a design suitable for navigating the Mississippi as it is. He also offers suggestions for improved mail facilities.

Other articles are "Education by the Garland," by Charlton L. Edholm; "Training Bakers and Cooks in the United States Army;" "Fourth of July Pageants," with timely suggestions for same celebrations; "Opera by Wireless," "Rattlesnakes Met by Government Explorers," "New Torpedo Boat Terror" and "The Confessions of a Handcuff King." J. Gordon Ogden discusses "High Temperatures and the Rare Metals"—an article written in a simple non-technical style.

The June number contains in all 244 articles and 243 illustrations. The Shop Notes department contains helpful "kinks" in large variety for men of every craft. The Amateur Mechanics department contains articles on "Home Made Telegraph Key," "Combined Turning Rings and Swing," "Home-Made Tripod Holder," "Weaving a Shoestring Watch Fob," "Wood-Working for Beginners," "Electric Shocking Coil," and other interesting subjects. All are written so you can understand them."

THE EFFECT OF THE COMET.

Agreeing that no harmful effect is to be experienced from the passage of the earth through the tail of Halley's comet, New England astronomers appear not to concur as to the possibility of a luminous display similar to northern lights. Professor David P. Todd of Amherst College thinks the aurora effect probable, Professor Robert W. Willson of the Harvard College observatory declares that there may be a darkening of the atmosphere, while Professor Edward C. Pickering, head of the Harvard observatory, says: "I doubt if there will be any effect at all."

Professor Willson said further that "there may be a shower of charged particles, very small but numerous, which may affect wireless telegraphy. There is no cause for alarm or fear. Cyanogen exists only near the comet's head, and the tail is a good vacuum." Professor Todd declares that there will be no more sensation than that caused by the rays of light from a distant candle on a person's hand. There is an equal amount of cyanogen gas emitted from each, proportionately, he says. Leon Campbell, another of the Harvard astronomers, thinks a luminous display probable.

West Greenwich Financial Town Meeting a Long Wrangle.

Narragansett Advances the Tax Rate Fifty Per Cent—Free Fishermen Retreat.

The annual financial meeting of the taxpayers of West Greenwich, Monday, was marked by the usual prolonged wrangle between the "machine" forces, led by Senator Leon D. Andrews, and the "antis," under the lead of former Senator Norman Capwell, the contest lasting from shortly after 10 o'clock in the forenoon to 4:30 in the afternoon. An even half hundred of the freemen of the town qualified to vote on financial matters participated in the proceedings, the "antis" winning handily. The meeting was full of interest from start to finish, the "regulars" fighting for every possible point and being as steadily defeated at every stage of the proceedings by former Senator Capwell and his supporters. A forecast of the strenuous doings of the day was furnished just before the meeting was opened in the appearance of Deputy Sheriff T. S. Andrews of Riverpoint, armed with a writ of execution to be served on Town Clerk George R. Fiske and Tax Collector Hulsey Briggs for the collection of the amount of costs, $90.90, in the suit brought by the men named against former Town Clerk John B. Vaughan, the decision of the supreme court being in favor of Mr. Vaughan after a long legal battle in the superior court and appeal to the supreme court. Later in the day this matter was a cause for the bitterest struggle of the meeting, and a resort to fisticuffs was averted only through the determined attitude of the moderator, George Fish, who is also town sergeant. The trouble arose over the declaration of the Moderator that a resolution offered by Mr. Capwell had been voted down. The resolution was similar to one passed last year, and instructed the town treasurer "not to pay any bills or fees for legal expenses incurred by George R. Fiske and Halsey Briggs in the suit instituted by them against John B. Vaughan," the intention being to save the town from the liability of the costs in the case. The resolution carried similar instructions regarding any payments to Samuel W. K. Allen for "alleged legal services rendered." Mr. Allen had acted as town solicitor for two years in defiance of the vote of the taxpayers, refusing any appropriation for such service, and it was Mr. Vaughan's refusal—as town clerk—to record the minutes of a meeting held in May, 1906, that led to the suit against him and resulted in decision for the latter. It was claimed at that time, that the minutes in question had been prepared by Mr. Allen after the meeting, and when the latter brought the alleged record to Mr. Vaughan for the latter's certification he declined to accept it as a true record of the meeting.

The annual financial meeting of the town of Narragansett was held Monday, the net result of the session of more than three hours being an increase of the tax rate from $1 to $1.50 on each $100, and the ordering of $10,000 paid to the sinking fund. There were protracted discussions over the tax rate, and over many of the appropriations, which are as follows: For public schools, $5,000; for police, so much as is received from liquor licenses, and no more; for Pier library, $250; for public water, $2,550; for street lights, $2,465; for beach surfmen, $300; for interest, so much as is necessary; for miscellaneous expenses, so much as is necessary out of any moneys not otherwise appropriated; for fire department, to pay balance on chemical hose wagon, $150; for highways, $6,000, and out of that amount the roads of the compact part of the town to be oiled twice; for state tax, so much as is by law required; for salaries of town officers, so much as is necessary; for support of poor, so much as is necessary; for payment of sewer bonds, $5,000.

With the decks cleared for action the free fishermen who were to invade the private oyster beds off Conimicut this morning and rake for quahaugs received notice from Captain William F. Hart of Providence Monday evening that the proposed demonstration had been called off. The firm and determined stand taken by Brayton A. Round, secretary of the Board of Shellfish Commissioners, who, after consulting with the attorney general, prepared to meet the invading force and swore in a number of extra deputies, is responsible for the hauling down of the flag by the captain of the free fishermen. There was much disappointment in Pawtuxet when it was learned that the proposed show of strength was postponed. The fishermen had received instructions to be ready for anything and to repel boarders with oars or anything else at hand, if any man, whether deputy or not, should attempt to enter any of the boats of the fleet. When the fishermen realized finally that the Shell Fish Commission meant business, they decided that it was time to call the whole business off for the present. Attorney General Greenough, Mr. Round said, had advised him that the planning of an unlawful act by a confederation is a conspiracy, and, therefore, an indictable offence.

"I can tell now within 20 just how many persons live in Providence," says Supervisor of the Census George H. Webb. "The census in Providence has been completed with the exception of about 20 doubtful cases which must be investigated yet. I am prohibited by law from giving any advance information concerning the figures, but I think I may say that Providence has nothing to feel badly about. "This is my third census and it is also my best one. The government has placed funds at our disposal this year that we never had before and our investigations have been very thorough as a consequence." The complete returns of the Providence census will be placed at the disposal of the re-districting commission Wednesday afternoon. At that time the sub-committee appointed to re-district the city of Providence will begin the active work of dividing the city into 25 Assembly districts.

David J. Barry of Providence has been awarded the contract for building the new $225,000 reception building of the State Hospital for the Insane at Cranston, his bid being the lowest of 13. The contract is to provide that work shall begin ten days after the signing of the agreement, with the provision that the building be completed by November 30, 1911. If not complete then, a penalty of $25 for every days after that time in which it is not finished will be taken from the price to be paid for the work. The funds with which the new building is to be erected will be secured through the penal and reformatory bond issue of $300,000, which was authorized by the state electors in 1908.

All the hotel men in Cranston were refused renewals of their licenses at the meeting of the city council at Knightsville Monday evening. The druggists' liquor licenses received close scrutiny, and as a result the renewal of the license of W. E. Wasson of Pawtuxet was refused, those of Charles Lowe of Edgewood, Paul C. Broderick of Cranston and Frank R. Keithley of Arlington were granted, and two in Auburn, applied for by Horace F. Slocum and Martin Dolan, were continued at the request of Councilman Spellman until such time as he could be present at the meeting.

Zevan A. Semeonian, three years old, narrowly escaped death at Watchemoket square in East Providence Monday afternoon, when he ran in front of a car bound for Luther's Corners and was picked up by the fender. A car came along and as the electric started to pass the boy he ran in front of it. Seeing the car would strike the child before he could stop it the motorman dropped the fender, and as the car rolled toward the boy it knocked him down and he was picked up and carried a short distance. Some one standing near the car pulled the child out, and in a semi-conscious condition he was carried to the office of a physician by his mother, who had been summoned. No serious injuries were apparent, there having only a slight concussion of the brain.

Governor Pothier will be a speaker Thursday evening at a banquet which is to be the closing event of the convention of the Massachusetts Board of Trade, which is to consider the part Massachusetts will play in the Atlantic Deeper Waterways convention to be held in Providence.

NO COMPROMISE POSSIBLE.

Senate Regulars and Insurgents Cannot Agree on Railroad Bill.

WASHINGTON, May 17.—At a conference of Republican regulars in the Senate this afternoon it was decided that compromise with the insurgent Republicans is impossible. All propositions looking to an agreement through mutual concessions for an amicable settlement of remaining sections of the railroad bill are likely to be withdrawn.

WILL KNOX ARBITRATE?

Said to Be Contemplating Action Toward Peru-Ecuador Peace.

WASHINGTON, May 17.—There is reason to believe that Secretary Knox contemplates taking some immediate action having for its object the re-establishment of peaceful relations between Peru and Ecuador. The State Department officials, however, decline to discuss the matter at this time.

HEIKE JURY COMPLETE.

Each Talesman Asked If He Had Been Approached Since Called.

NEW YORK, May 17.—Completing the work of filling the jury box was expected to occupy only a short time when the trial of Charles R. Heike, secretary of the American Sugar Refining Company, was resumed today in the United States circuit court. Heike, with five others, is charged with conspiracy to cheat the government out of sugar duties by underweighing cargoes. He is the highest officer of the so-called Sugar Trust to be prosecuted in connection with the sugar underweighing scandals, and is specifically charged with endorsing checks drawn by the government for the refund thought to be due the sugar company when the alleged false weights were turned in by the weighers.

Heike pleaded immunity, but his plea was disallowed by the United States Supreme Court.

A significant question was asked each of the talesmen today by Henry L. Stimson, the special government prosecutor in charge of the sugar cases. Mr. Stimson's query was: "Have you been approached by any one since you were called as a talesman?"

It was supposed that Mr. Stimson's inquiry was because of reports that a prospective juror had stated privately to the court that some one had approached him relative to the performance of his duty as a juror since he was summoned as a talesman. None of the jurors, however, had been approached. It was learned that it was James Tole, president of a Typographical Union, who had reported yesterday that he had been approached soon after he was called as a talesman. Tole was excused from service on the Heike trial, and instructed to return to court Monday next. Shortly before noon the jury was completed.

CHURCH STAGING FALLS.

Three Stucco Workers Seriously Injured in Woonsocket.

WOONSOCKET, May 17. A staging in the interior of the new Church of the Holy Family, South Main street, fell under the weight of three stucco workers at 11:30 this morning. All were seriously injured in the fall of 40 feet and were taken to the Woonsocket hospital. Donato Dintico, aged 28, of Cambridge, Mass., sustained a fracture of the seventh right rib and was injured internally; Antonio Nutch, 31, of Cambridge, had his left foot fractured; Marshall Davison, 24, of New Britain, Conn., foreman and member of the company of contractors, the Blanchard Company, stucco workers of Eas; Cambridge, had his right ankle fractured.

MOST OFFICERS RE-ELECTED.

John Mitchell Talks to Women's Federation in Cincinnati.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, May 17.—Interest in today's work of the General Federation of Women's Clubs centered in the election of officers. The nominating committee chose Mrs. Philip N. Moore of St. Louis for re-election as president, and nearly all the other officers were re-nominated.

John Mitchell, former president of the United Mine Workers of America, addressed the convention on the "Death Roll of Industry." He asserted that a large proportion of accidents to wage earners are preventable, and where they are not the employer should assume much greater liability than he does.

ALREADY TOO HIGH.

Shippers Vigorously Oppose Proposed Advance in Freight Rates.

CHICAGO, May 17.—Vigorously opposing the proposed advance in freight rates which carriers in official classification territory and Western trunk line territory have decided to make, shippers from all sections of the country gathered in conference here today at one of the largest meetings of shippers assembled in years. The conference was called to order by W. H. Burn, vice president of the Illinois Manufacturers' Association, under whose auspices the meeting is held. All the speakers declared that the rates on many articles are already too high, and that the carriers are wrong in their contention that higher rates are necessary to meet increased operating expenses.

GENERAL A. B. R. SPRAGUE DEAD.

Career as Soldier, Politician, Official and Business Man Ended.

WORCESTER, Mass., May 17.—The career of General A. B. R. Sprague as a soldier, politician, city official and business man closed today, death coming after an illness of two weeks.

General Sprague was born in Ware in 1827, and was mustered out of service in the Civil war as a brevet brigadier general of volunteers. He served the city in both branches of the city council and as mayor, and also had been sheriff of Worcester county and a collector of internal revenue. At the time of his death he was president of the Worcester Electric Light Company and the Mechanics Savings Bank.

RELEASED ON $3,000 BONDS.

Worcester Business Man Plead Not Guilty of License Bribery.

WORCESTER, Mass., May 17.—Two prominent business men, both of French extraction—John B. Simard, president of the Bay State Coal Company, and Eli Bouchard, resident agent for an insurance company—pleaded not guilty in the municipal court today to charges of attempting to bribe the license commissioners in connection with the issuing of liquor licenses. Simard was arrested last night, while Bouchard was taken into custody today, and both were released on furnishing $3,000 bonds.

A SELLING AGREEMENT.

Fish Trappers Appoint a Committee to Arrange Shipments to Secure Fair Returns.

The fish shipment Monday was 645 barrels, of which 325 went to New York, and some to Fall River, Providence, Boston and Philadelphia. It looked on the dock this afternoon as though the total today would be nearly 1,000 barels. The trappers are bringing in about 100 barrels each and there will be fish other than scup.

The trappers have yielded to the inevitable, and at a meeting today agreed not to sell except under conditions which will give them some returns for their fish. The dock price was fixed at $8 and none will be sold below. Rose and Tallman were appointed agents for the trappers, to arrange details for shipping and look after their interests generally. As many fish will be shipped, while they last, as the market can handle. There will be no curtailment of shipping, but if the market is flooded so that prices are down and the fishermen cannot secure fair returns for fish, there will be no shipment. This is as it has been in former years.

This was the banner day also for mackerel. The Betsy Ross and Helen had 600 each, the Dart and Beatrice 300 each, the Jessie 400 and there were two small boats with 25 each, making a total of 2,250. Fred Harty took all that would be sold out of town and shipped them to Boston, where people recognize that these are the mackerel of the season.

Four big mackerel seiners were in this morning and all but one have gone. The Georgia and Ralph Hall were in from the southern grounds, took ice and have gone east, to fit out for the Cape shore. They are the first of the southern fleet to report going down east.

—After two days of rest the Newport base ball team will play three games this week, beginning with a game with the Waltham team. Just who the Waltham players are is not known here, but it is expected that the visitors will give the locals a good rub. If the weather is like that of today, it ought to be a pleasure to go to Wellington Park.

—Lighter J. K. Sullivan is discharging 100 tons of Spanish salt from schooner Georgetta Lawrence for C. B. Anderson, who will use it for curing fish. The Spanish salt seems to hold first place with the Gloucester fishermen, and this was imported to Gloucester and brought here. Unloading salt is similar to unloading coal, except for the color of the cargo.

—There is no trouble with the grade of weather supplied to Newport today. Some may be in doubt as to whether the comet's tail will or will not reach the earth Wednesday night, but no one has any occasion to doubt that this is a great day from a weather point of view. Things which grow in the spring are just springing under the drawing influence of old Sol.

—The highway department is setting the curb ordered on the east side of Annandale road. One of the rollers is at work on Prairie avenue, which is being macadamized; curb is being re-set on Third and Everett streets, and the work on the foundation of the watering cart, pumping station at Hazard's beach has been started. The regular repairing and cleaning is going on all over town.

THE EARTH AND THE COMET.

Collision Depends on Length of Wanderer's Tail When Time Comes

NEW YORK, May 17.—Whether this mundane orb is going to be swished tomorrow night by that much-discussed celestial vagrant, Halley's comet, which rambles round in space and enters the earth's back yard every 75 years for a visit, depends entirely on the length of the wanderer's tail, and this astral visitor has a happy and elusive faculty of putting on, and dropping off a 25,000,000-mile appendage all within a day or two. Whether this Haller's visitor will be accountered with all his lengthy trappings tomorrow night is just what millions of people will sit up to see, since the learned astronomers don't seem to agree. Professor S. A. Mitchell of the astrological department of Columbia College gives the cheering news that the earth will pass through the comet's tail 14,000,000 miles from the head. Meanwhile the demand for telescopes and opera glasses is growing apace to watch for the threatened collision.

EARTH MUST PASS THROUGH.

Comet's Tail Ninety Degrees Long and Eight to Ten Broad.

TAUNTON, Mass., May 17.—The tail of Halley's comet now extends considerably beyond the earth's orbit, and the earth will certainly pass through the luminous train of the sky wanderer tomorrow night. This is the conclusion of Rev. Joel Hastings Metcalf, a well-known astronomer of his city. He has discovered several comets, and the results of his observations have been accepted by the officials of the Harvard Observatory.

Mr. Metcalf observed Halley's comet this morning under ideal conditions. The sky was clear and the air was free from haze. The astronomer sighted the comet at 2:45 a. m. a short time before the head of the visitor peered above the horizon line. The observation showed that the tail of the comet is now 90 degrees in length, or equal to the distance from the horizon to the zenith. The tail lay nearly parallel to the horizon. It was from eight to ten degrees broad, which means an actual width of about 1,000,000 miles. Mr. Metcalf also reported that the tail was apparently straight and in process of broadening, and has not yet reached its maximum width. The northern and western heads of the tail touched Gamma Pegasi and extended to 71 Aquila, possibly to Theta Aquilæ.

Mr. Metcalf telephoned the results of his observations to the Harvard Observatory today. The Harvard observers told him that they had not begun their observations sufficiently early to get the details which he obtained, and they accepted his findings.

WHOLE BROADSIDE ON COMET.

Every Instrument in Yerkes Observatory to Be Working.

CHICAGO, May 17.—Sixteen cameras will be turned on Halley's comet tomorrow night at Yerkes Observatory, Williams Bay, Wis., where the largest telescope in the world is located. "We certainly will bring our whole broadside to bear," said Professor E. B. Frost. "Every instrument in the observatory will be at work that night, in charge of an expert.

"We have been conservative in our predictions so far. I don't mind saying, though, that I will not be surprised at anything that happens Wednesday night. It is impossible to predict what phenomena will result. There is a possibility that a meteoric display will be visible, but I should hesitate to call this a probability, and then there may be electrical disturbances in the atmosphere, such as auroral displays, but the heavens will be very light Wednesday, owing to the presence of a good-sized moon, and it is very doubtful whether in such unfavorable conditions much will be learned."

A FALL RIVER TRAGEDY.

One Wedding Guest Killed, Two Others Held for Manslaughter.

FALL RIVER, May 17.—A drunken row in which three wedding guests took part occurred in this city at 1:30 o'clock this morning, resulting in the death of Henry Bonnoyer, aged 28 years, and the arrest of his two companions on manslaughter charges, furnishing a tragic ending to the wedding party. Louis Gibeau, 27, and Wilfred St. Martin, 28, were placed under arrest, and on arraignment before Judge McDonough in the district court this morning continuances were obtained by the government, surety in the sum of $2,500 each being ordered.

The row was precipitated through the actions of a young woman named Adrienne Joly, who refused to allow Bonnoyer to escort her home because he was intoxicated. She permitted St. Martin to accompany her, and Bonnoyer overtook the young woman and her escort on an open lot off Bedford street. A row ensued and Gibeau, it is alleged, struck Bonnoyer while he was helpless on the ground. The unfortunate man died within an hour, and his body was found by the police in a Quarry street tenement, where he had been carried by his assailants.

OFFICER STABBED AND KILLED.

Many Persons Wounded in Spanish Republicans-Gendarmes Clash.

MADRID, May 17.—A collision between Republicans and gendarmes is reported from Valencia in connection with a manifestation in honor of the arrival there of the Republican deputy Senor Soriano. The gendarmes charged and the Republicans used knives and stones. An officer was stabbed and killed and many persons were wounded. Fifty arrests were made and order was finally restored after the manifestants had sought refuge at the Republican Club.

BILL REPORTED FAVORABLY.

If Measure Is Passed, New Haven Road Will Control Berkshire.

BOSTON, May 17.—A bill permitting the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company to purchase a controlling interest in the Berkshire Street Railway Company, now controlled by the New England Investment & Security Company, which is also dominated by the New Haven Company, was favorably reported today by the legislative committee on railroads and street railways. The Berkshire company, which owns practically all the street railway lines west of the Connecticut river in Massachusetts was acquired by the New Haven company several years ago, but the latter company was forced to relinquish the former by reason of an adverse decision of the supreme court.

The present legislation has been pending before the general court three years, and if the bill becomes law it will enable the New Haven road to operate the trolley line directly instead of indirectly, as is now the case. Representative P. M. Washburn of Worcester, house chairman of the committee on railroads, objects to the bill, and will lead the fight against it. Five other members of the committee reserve the right to dissent from the report.

MORE WAGES, LESS TIME.

BOAT TRIP OVER DESERT LAND

Rights of California Settlers Jeopardized by Whimsical Trick.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., May 17.—A boat trip in which the voyagers rode and not rowed is said to be at the bottom of a controversy over Palo Verde valley lands valued at $2,500,000. The rights of settlers are considered in jeopardy because of a whimsical trick practiced 35 years ago by a San Francisco millionaire, now dead. It is charged that he had the boat loaded on a wagon, and after it had been hauled over a reclaimed tract of 44,000 acres of rich land under the swamp and overflow act, attested to the fact that he had made the trip in a boat. The land is desert land.

The dispute, which on its face, appears to be a controversy between the government and the state, will come up for a hearing before United States Surveyor General Archer in Los Angeles June 2. Settlers, however, assert that the controversy is really between them and a landgrabbing syndicate.

METHODISTS CONDEMN FIGHT.

Oakland Church Asks Authorities to Try to Prevent It.

OAKLAND, Cal., May 17.—Resolutions condemning the Jeffries-Johnson fight and calling on the governor and the district attorney to use all possible means to prevent it, were passed last night at a meeting of 800 members of the First Methodist Episcopal Church.

A FORMER APPRENTICE SEAMAN.

Frederick M. Earl, One Time at Training Station, Passes Examination to Naval Academy.

When Frederick M. Earl of Northfield, Vt., took the oath which admitted him as a midshipman in the United States navy Monday afternoon, he realized the ambition for which he had worked with uncommon determination, raising himself from an enlisted apprentice to an embryo officer. While at the Naval Training Station here as an apprentice seaman, Earl heard that Congressman Frank Plumley would hold a competitive examination for the appointment. He seized the opportunity and won from the field. He was then transferred to the Severn, stationed at Annapolis, and prepared so faithfully that he passed his entrance examination to the Naval Academy with flying colors.

A NEW LOWER THAMES STREET BUILDING.

At the time of the sale of the Denniston estate on Thames street, Lee's wharf and West Howard street it was thought there would be some building to improve the property, and this is soon to be done. Mr. John B. Donnelly and Mr. Thomas Denniston, who bought the Thames Street property, have contracted with Kerr & Beeson for improving the place at the corner of Lee's wharf and Thames street in accordance with plans by Mr. Kerr. At present there is a two-story dwelling on the corner. This is to give way to a three-story structure, fitted with three stores and four tenements, with the latest modern improvements. This will make a material change in the appearance of this part of the street, which has remained unchanged for years.

RAILROAD BILL STEAMS AHEAD.

Measure Passes House and Makes Progress in the Senate.

The Postal Banks Act—Taft Expects to Carry Out His Program—Franking Abuses Inquiry.

[Washington correspondence of the News.]

WASHINGTON, May 16.—The passage of the railroad bill by the House makes a brighter outlook for the entire Taft program. As amended the measure is radically different from that prepared by Attorney General Wickersham. The traffic agreement and pooling sections are eliminated, the short and long haul clause is added, telegraph and telephone companies are placed under the control of the Interstate Commerce Commission, physical valuation of all railroads is incorporated, mergers between railroads and water carriers are prohibited, the majority of the Supreme Court is empowered to name the justices of the new commerce court, and the Attorney General is deprived of discretionary power in cases appealed from the Interstate Commerce Commission to the commerce court. Only one of these amendments, that striking out the traffic agreement and pooling sections, has been agreed to by the Senate. Several others, among them the long and short haul clause, the inclusion of telegraph and telephone companies and the physical valuation of railroads, the Senate either has rejected or is almost certain to reject. The fight will thus come in conference committee. That some agreement between the two Houses will be reached is probable, but on just what basis it is impossible as yet to predict. It is certain that a determined fight will be made to eliminate the telegraph and telephone section and that prohibiting a larger charge for a short haul than a long one, but the other house amendments may remain. It is generally believed that the President will sign this sort of a bill. His chief contention is for the commerce court, and, while this feature escaped defeat in the House by a narrow margin, it is now comparatively safe. He also insists on sections 13, 14 and 15, which provide for the government supervision of railroad stocks and bonds, and these are also practically sure of remaining in the bill.

An agreement has been reached by the postoffice committee of the House to report out the postal savings bank bill in the near future. The measure will be quite different, however, from what it was passed by the Senate. The Borah amendment prohibiting the investment of postal funds in 2 per cent government bonds will be eliminated. A compromise will be effected between those who believe that postal deposits should be placed in nearby banks and those who favor using them to buy bonds. Provision will be made for both plans under certain restrictions. It is understood that the bill will be placed before a Republican caucus and will be passed in the shape there agreed to. While there will doubtless be a fight between the two Houses on the Borah amendment, it now seems probable that the bill in some form will be enacted into law.

President Taft continues to be an optimist. Never for a moment has he given up his legislative program, and his faith now seems in a measure justified. All he is now insisting on is the railroad bill, the postal savings bank bill, two conservation bills, the anti-injunction bill and the statehood bill. As already noted, the railroad and postal savings bank measures seem fairly sure to pass. There should be little difficulty in putting through the two conservation measures, one of them validating the President's withdrawals of public lands and the other providing for irrigation bonds. Mr. Taft in his Passaic speech frankly intimated that much of the opposition to the statehood measure comes from the regular Republicans, who fear that the four Senators from the two new states would be either Democrats or insurgents. As for the anti-injunction bill, which is still sleeping in committee, it is opposed by the labor unions on the one hand and by the Manufacturers' association on the other. If the President can get this program through he is entitled to an optimist.

The brighter outlook for the postal savings bank bill seems due to the President alone. No sooner had the railroad bill passed the House than the members of the House postoffice committee were called to the White House carpet and told that they would be held responsible for the fate of the postal savings bank bill. If Mr. Taft takes like vigorous action on the other measures which constitute his policies there will be something doing in Congress from this time forward.

The senate has started a new investigation this time into the franking privilege. The original resolution was offered by Senator Stone to cover the franking out of a pamphlet entitled "A Story of the Tariff." As amended the resolution is more comprehensive.

DECREASE IN USE OF COAL.

Navy May be Able to Have a Permanent Saving of 10 Per Cent Over Last Year.

[Washington correspondent of the New York Tribune.]

The navy burns in round numbers $5,000,000 worth of coal a year. After allowing for differences in the amount of cruising, the naval engineers have to their credit a saving of $250,000 in three months. That probably cannot be maintained under all conditions, but there is every reason to believe that a permanent and continuous saving of 10 per cent over last year can be maintained, by attention to details, by more systematic firing, by economy of steam, by replacing defective joints and journals, stopping leaking valves and the hundred and one little things which go to make up increased efficiency.

For example, on the Georgia improved evaporators have reduced the cost of making fresh water 40 per cent. On the Kansas and North Carolina the fitting of improved propellers has greatly reduced the cost of steaming. On the Montana a saving of 15 tons of coal a day has been effected by systematic firing. On a single ship the coal consumption has been decreased 25 per cent at sea and 35 per cent in port. When the Atlantic fleet returned recently from Guantanamo it steamed at an average speed of 12½ knots and consumed 150 tons less coal than on the down trip, when the speed was only 11.5 knots. Since last December a total saving in coal consumption of 5 per cent has been accomplished.

THE BARBER'S JOKE.

Jim Rice, coach of the Columbia crew, was praising a stalwart freshman.

"He's so young and tender," said the coach, "you'd never think he could row. Why, they laugh at him at the barber's. As he was getting his hair cut the other day, he said to the barber wistfully:

"'Do you think I'll have a strong beard? My father has a very strong one.'

"'It looks to me,' said the barber, 'as though you took after your mother.'"

HEALTHY PLANTS

Require the Most Careful Attention as Well as Good Soil.

Did you ever see a rosebush which—despite the most beneficent environment of soil—of sunshine—and of atmosphere,—seemed never to achieve a healthy growth.

A ton of manure will not help a plant that has a canker eating out its heart.

You must destroy the cause before you can remove the effect.

You cannot cure Dandruff and Baldness by rubbing on hair lotions, and rubbing in vaseline, etc.

You must look to the cause of the trouble—it's a germ at the roots of your hair which causes it to fall out.

Newbro's Herpicide destroys the germ, and healthy hair is the sure result.

A Storekeeper Says:

"A lady came into my store lately and said:

"'I have been using a New Perfection Oil Cook-Stove all winter in my apartment. I want one now for my summer home. I think these oil stoves are wonderful. If only women knew what a comfort they are, they would all have one. I spoke about my stove to a lot of my friends, and they were astonished. They thought that there was smell and smoke from an oil stove, and that it heated a room just like any other stove. I told them of my experience, and one after another they got one, and now, not one of them would give hers up for five times its cost.'"

The lady who said this had thought an oil stove was all right for quickly heating milk for a baby, or boiling a kettle of water, or to make coffee quickly in the morning, but she never dreamed of using it for difficult or heavy cooking. Now—she knows.

Do you really appreciate what a New Perfection Oil Cook-Stove means to you? No more coal to carry, no more coming to the dinner table so tired out that you can't eat. Just light a Perfection Stove and immediately the heat from an intense blue flame shoots up to the bottom of pot, kettle or oven. But the room isn't heated. There is no smoke, no smell, no outside heat, no drudgery in the kitchen where one of these stoves is used.

Cautionary Note: Be sure you get this stove—see that the name-plate reads "New Perfection."

AN EXPERT'S OPINION OF SKIN DISEASES.

A prominent, national expert on skin diseases whose name you are familiar with says that in all his scientific experience he has never found so hard a disease to conquer as Eczema. Yet he does not hesitate to recommend ZEMO as a most successful remedy for the treatment of Eczema, itching skin diseases, dandruff, pimples, blackheads and all other diseases of the skin and scalp. He says that not only do its curative qualities make it popular but also the fact that it is a clean, liquid remedy for external use. A great improvement over the old style greasy salves and lotions which are not only unpleasant to use but do not destroy the germ life that causes the disease. ZEMO draws the germs to the surface and destroys them, leaving the skin clear and healthy. Can be used freely on infants. Mr. Jno. M. Callahan will gladly supply those who call with a free sample bottle of ZEMO and a booklet which explains in simple language all about skin diseases and how to cure yourself at home with ZEMO.

MAY HAVE DIED IN STAMPEDE.

Twenty-seven Convicts Missing After Fire in Lucile, Alabama.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., May 17.—Dr. W. A. Burns, state physician of mines, returned last night at midnight from Lucile, where a fire destroyed a prison stockade. He said: "Twenty-seven convicts are missing; there is no doubt they are dead; the three white convicts escaped. The stockade was burned by three ringleaders, who attempted some time ago to burn the place. Two of these were shot down by the guards. It is believed that most of the convicts were sleeping when the fire alarm was turned in, and a stampede that followed resulted in the deaths."

WELCOMED BY MACVEAGH.

Federation of Arts Opens Three Days' Session in Washington.

WASHINGTON, May 17.—With an address of welcome by Franklin MacVeagh, Secretary of the Treasury, the first annual convention of the American Federation of Arts opened here today for a three days' session. This organization, formed here a year ago for the purpose, among others, of improving municipal and national arts, is a delegate body, numbering in its 96 chapters such organizations as the Museum of Fine Arts and the Metropolitan Improvement League, Boston; the Corcoran Gallery of Art, Washington; the American Fine Arts Society, New York; the Art Institute, Chicago; the University of Pennsylvania and many other great educational institutions.

A wide range of interesting papers will be read before the convention by persons prominent in the movement for the betterment of civic art.

KING'S BODY LIES IN WESTMINSTER.

other side, and extending nearly the length of the hall, were massed the peers and the members of the House of Commons, more than 400 from each chamber. All these, who included many of England's foremost statesmen, were in informal black dress. The others who made up the great assemblage which filled the hall formed a shining field of color, in which gold and scarlet predominated.

The choir, surpliced in white and crimson, occupied an elevation at the south end of the hall under the vast stained windows. A step lower were stationed the red-coated bandsmen. The heralds and their pursuivants occupied a still lower position, but well above the floor, grouped at the foot of the elevation were a hundred of the great generals and admirals of the empire. In the centre Lord Kitchener, tall and dark, towered over Lord Roberts, who is short and gray. Near by was seen the grim face of Lord Fisher, one time senior naval lord of the admiralty. At the opposite end of the hall was a great congregation of courtiers and officers, picked men, the finest-appearing in England and wearing a dazzling variety of uniforms and decorations.

The service occupied only half an hour. The Archbishop of Canterbury, standing at the head of the casket, recited the Lord's prayer, which was repeated by the whole congregation. The Archbishop then read the Twenty-Third Psalm, and the dean of Westminster read the Scriptural lesson from St. John V:24-25. At the conclusion of the reading the choir chanted a brief anthem and the archbishop offered prayer. He said:

"Lord, our Heavenly Father, by Whom kings reign and princes decree justice, we remember before Thee our late sovereign lord King Edward, in thankfulness for the blessings Thou hast bestowed upon us through his reign, for the wisdom of his rule and the faithfulness with which he served the people committed to his charge; for his continual effort to further and maintain peace among the nations, and for his watchful care of the sick and the poor."

Addressing the congregation, the archbishop said there was reason for thanksgiving for the peace and prosperity of the empire and for a ruler who was devoted to his people. He charged his hearers to consider well the lesson which Death teaches.

As the archbishop concluded the trumpets and drums sounded and the choir sang "Oh God, our Help in ages past," the accompaniment ceasing after the first stanza, to be renewed with the last. As the music died away the archbishop pronounced the benediction.

After the benediction the queen mother Alexandra, who had been seated in a purple-covered chair while the others stood, rose and, taking a step forward, knelt beside the casket. With hands clasped, she remained for a moment in silent prayer. Rising, she beckoned to her son to escort her, and moved slowly down the aisle, bowing slightly as she passed the guards of honor, who stood statue-like on either side. Queen Mary followed, also bowing, and the two preceded the others of the group of royalties from the hall.

Westminster Hall, the most spacious, cathedral-like structure in the kingdom, with its vastness and simplicity, made an ideal stage for the great spectacle. It was bare of embellishments. Four tall bronze pedestals, each bearing four candles, stood at the corners of the catafalque, on either side of which was a wreath of laurel, tributes from the House of Lords and the House of Commons, respectively. From the foot of the steps at the south end of the hall to the northern doorway a broad aisle was kept open, and through this the clergy with the cross borne before, advanced and met the funeral procession on its arrival from Buckingham Palace. The heralds and gentlemen of arms preceded the casket, which was carried on the shoulders of non-commissioned officers to its resting place on the catafalque. King George followed, with his mother on his right and Dowager Empress Marie, his aunt, on his left. The entrance was made amid a profound hush, broken only by the rolling of the drums outside and the tolling of the bell in the tower above.

WISHES MORE EVIDENCE FIRST.

Then Malone May Grant Hearing on Allowing Use of His Name.

BOSTON, May 17.—Attorney General Malone told certain citizens of Middlesex county today that if they would fill a formal petition he would grant a public hearing on the question of allowing the use of his name for an investigation of the finances of the county by the supreme court.

A number of the taxpayers of the county have filed charges against the county commissioners, the sheriff and several other county officers, alleging mismanagement in the business of the county. They appeared before the attorney general today to request him to permit the use of his name according to the provisions in such cases, but the attorney general desires to hear more evidence, on the side not only of the petitioners but of the respondents, before taking further action.

IMPORTANT QUESTIONS.

Prohibition Problem and Water Franchise Before Denver Voters.

DENVER, Col., May 17.—Important questions are being decided by the voters of Denver at the municipal election today, the prohibition problem and the granting of a 20-year franchise to the Denver Union Water Company being the principal features. Three solutions of the prohibition problem are offered the voters; First, the city-wide prohibition; second, high license and the restriction of the number of saloons to one for every 700 inhabitants; third, continuance of present conditions—a $600 annual license fee and no restrictions on the number of saloons.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, May 17.—The Hocking Valley Railway Company today filed suit in the United States circuit court here asking for an injunction against the receivers of the railway who were appointed yesterday by Common Pleas Judge Kinkaid, restraining the receivers from any action until the question of jurisdiction be settled. The bill makes H. J. Booth and John M. Sheets, the receivers, and Howard Manning, R. E. Westfall, R. H. Schoedinger, stockholders, the respondents. A temporary order is asked pending the decision of Judge Sater in the matter.

10—London sent lower prices for Americans today on the resumption of business after three days' cessation. There was little increase in activity in the market, however, over the prevailing dullness. Northern Pacific and Western Maryland declined 1, and Chicago Great Western preferred 1¼. Reading advanced ⅝.

11—A rise of nearly a point in Reading strengthened the market, but the higher prices brought out more stock and a reaction followed to well below the opening figures. Union Pacific, Northwestern, Amalgamated Copper, United States Steel, American Sugar, Anaconda and American Tobacco preferred sagged 1, and Reading second preferred 1½.

Noon—Money on call, steady, at 3½ per cent; prime mercantile paper, 4½ to 5 per cent. Disappointment was felt that the re-opening of foreign stock exchanges brought no increase of activity. No influence was perceptible from any news event, and the sag in prices was due to neglect.

AN UP-TO-DATE THEATRE.

Plans for the New Star Include Modern Features and a Showy Front.

Plans and specifications for the new Star Theatre have been filed according to law. They show an up-to-date and showy front for Thames street, with a foyer flanked by a store on either side and a decorative treatment of the second story. The theatre proper will be 50 feet back from the street, the second story of the front structure being devoted to a lodge room, which rumor has it will be the home of the Elks. The entrance to this will be from the alley on the north and the layout provides features which are attractive for the purposes intended.

The auditorium and stage of the theatre have a width of 62 feet and a depth of 114 feet, which carries the building back to the rear line of the property. The proscenium opening is 32 feet and the stage has a depth of 59 feet, 4 inches. The gridiron is 60 feet above the stage, which means that full-sized scenery can be hung and worked. The dressing rooms are at the back of the stage and have a corridor separating them from the stage proper. On the main floor of the auditorium are 25 rows of seats and in the balcony 10. The picture machine booth is above the balcony. The seating capacity will be nearly as great as that of the Opera House. The decorative features of the foyer and auditorium are elaborate and strictly up-to-date. The structure will be of concrete, brick and steel.

The plans, by Martin & Hall of Providence, are pretentious and if carried out will give Newport a modern theatre, since it is fully equipped for road companies and the moving picture show features are only accessories. Considerable attention has been given to providing emergency exits and a large automatic ventilator is arranged over the stage, to meet modern ideas of safety.

MELLEN'S BRIDGE TERMS.

New Haven Road Willing to Build Span Over Taunton River for Exclusive Use.

President Mellen of the New Haven road, in a letter to Mayor John T. Coughlin of Fall River, announced the willingness of the company to build a new railway bridge over the Taunton river for the exclusive use of the road, or a bridge so built as to accommodate the highway as well as the railroad if the city contributes its proportion to its construction.

If the city will give the road the right to construct a bridge for the exclusive use of the road, says Mr. Mellen, the road will build the bridge, with a tunnel through Fall River, and as a part of the understanding will re-imburse the public for its expenditure in the construction of the present Joint bridge. Incidentally he promised that the road between Fall River and New Bedford through the tunnel would be electrified.

President Mellen, in presenting the alternative propositions—a bridge to accommodate both the highway and the railroad—pointed out features which were, from the railroad's point of view at least, undesirable. If, however, the people would rather have a bridge of this character than to have a new purely railroad bridge and to be re-imbursed for their investment in the present structure Mr. Mellen said the company would acquiesce.

FUNERAL OF CORPORAL JOHN T. BURNETT.

The funeral of Corporal John T. Burnett, formerly of the One Hundred and Second Company, coast artillery corps, at Fort Adams, took place Monday afternoon from his late residence on Sharon court, Rev. Emery H. Porter, D. D., of Emmanuel Church officiating. The service was attended by a large number from the company, of which the deceased was a member 18 years, retiring about seven months ago. The interment was in the Island Cemetery, the bearers being Privates Charles Comiskey, Walter Freetly, John Stubbleblne, Edward Brown, Reuben Green and Roy Wilson of the One Hundred and Second Company. The members also sent a wreath and floral pillow, the latter having the words "18 Years Service" in immortelles.

RELICS OF THE BURNED WINDMILL.

Sheriff Anthony has on exhibition at his office a number of nails, spikes and bolts from his old windmill. They are apparently as perfect, in most cases, as when they were turned out by the makers some two centuries ago. At least, it is supposed that it is as long as that since that old mill was built, and of course the nails and spikes were made first. The corners of some of the larger bolts seem as sharp and perfect as when turned over, and they have been through a hot fire.

Mr. Benjamin Boyd, who ran the mill, had in today some samples of the old mill stones. Those were also supposed to be 200 years old, and Mr. Boyd says that a few days before the fire he tried a steel pick on the stone and found it almost as hard as flint. The fire, however, has crumbled the granite until it has lost all its life and can be ground under one's finger and thumb.

TO HEAD THE NAVY "PLUCKING BOARD."

It is expected that Rear Admiral Richard Wainwright will head what is known as the "plucking board," which annually is appointed to select a sufficient number of officers for compulsory retirement to insure a proper flow of promotions in the navy. Under the law there must be 15 vacancies created annually—five captains, four commanders, four lieutenant commanders and two lieutenants. However, it is expected that there will be some voluntary retirements before July 1, which will reduce the number of compulsory retirements.

MOTOR BOAT BILL PASSES.

House Measure for Regulation of Equipment Similar to That of the Senate.

The House of Representatives Monday passed a bill for the regulation of the equipment of motor boats, similar to the bill introduced by Representative Greene of Massachusetts, although reported by Representative Humphrey of Washington. A somewhat similar bill passed the Senate April 26, but the amendments in the House measure are such that the differences can readily be adjusted in conference.

The bill divides motor boats into classes of less than 26 feet in length up to 65 feet in length, stipulating the lights, etc., to be carried by the various classes. The Senate bill provided that the boats of not more than 40 feet, used for pleasure and propelled by steam, should be subject to the same regulations as motor boats. The House bill provides in addition that steam vessels of not more than 65 feet in length, and not used for carrying passengers for hire shall not be required to carry licensed officers. The House bill provides the uniform penalty of $100 for violations of the act instead of the various penalties provided in different sections of the Senate bill.

VALUE OF THE X RAY.

Dr. Wheatland Considers It an Efficient Remedy for Cancer on the Outside of the Body.

Dr. Marcus F. Wheatland was the speaker at the Channing Club's closing dinner, Monday evening at the Channing parlors. The dinner was served by Muenchinger. Mr. L. K. Carr, the president, presided, and the Divine blessing was asked by Mr. W. H. Chapin, general secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association, who was a guest of the club.

Dr. Wheatland spoke first of the developments in the science of electricity leading up to the discovery of the X ray, and then gave a complete description of the apparatus and the wonders it has performed in the medical world. The lecture was illustrated with a number of stereopticon pictures of fractures and other disclosures made by the X ray. To further illustrate the processes of the rays Dr. Wheatland took with the aid of the fluoroscope several pictures of the bones of a number of the guests, showing the way the apparatus works.

At the close of the lecture Dr. Wheatland answered a number of questions by those present, during which he said he considered the X-ray an efficient remedy for cancer on the outside of the body but of little service against cancer within. The stereopticon with which the pictures were shown was operated by Mr. Lincoln Hammett.

IN THE POLICE COURT.

Four Men Fined for Revelling and a Sailor for Driving Off With a Cab.

Before the court at the police station this morning four men were arraigned for revelling on Davis court. The revelling consisted of throwing rocks at a house to which they had vainly appealed for entrance. The court said $5 and costs each, which means $7.60 each, or a total of $30.40. Two paid, and two are still in "durance vile." This term is only poetic, as there is nothing vile about the condition of the police station cells. They are right up-to-date for cleanliness, but the "durance" is what is vile.

From State street came a wail of woe. Peter Gerahty had left his cab on the street for a moment, and when he came out the street was bare. This was about Monday 10 p. m. He made a wireless cry of distress and all his fellow cabbies were at attention. About 11 o'clock they saw—at least those of them who were on Washington square saw—the cab coming down Touro street. The horse looked as though he had been driven to a picnic in the country, and a member of Uncle Sam's navy from the Training Station was at the helm. Officer Ackers heard the signal from the cabbies and took in the sailor. He said his three companions had deserted him, but he had not deserted the horse. This morning the court said $20 and costs when he pleaded guilty to a charge of larceny.

For some time there have been complaints about the reckless throwing of balls in the vicinity of Heath court, and Monday a lad of 12 was arrested for throwing a base ball in the street. The arrest was made to show that the place is no playground. The court said $2 and costs and the treasury of Clerk Kelley was increased to the extent of $4.60. It was an expensive throw, but those who have been buying new panes of glass have had their times for paying.

A complaint of interference with the dignity of public worship is under investigation. It appears that the ralment of one of the congregation seemed too antique for an up-to-date member, with the result that the latter's risibles were unduly (for a church) excited, and he laughed right out in meeting. There was nothing serious about it, except the complaint.

NOT ENTITLED TO LENIENCY.

Judge Baker Refuses to Reduce a Fine of $50 Against a Reckless Automobilist.

Judge Darius Baker of the superior court, sitting in Providence Monday expressed the opinion that reckless drivers of automobiles are not entitled to the court's leniency. "We all have to skip out of their way to keep from being run over," he said. Michael A. Butler, a taxicab driver from Boston, pleaded nolo to the charge of overspeeding his machine in Pawtucket. The case came before the district court in that city soon after the killing of a little girl by an automobilist who lived there, and according to Hugh J. Carroll, counsel for Butler, the sentence was heavier on account of the public feeling at that time. Mr. Carroll said his client was acting under instructions from a passenger who was urging him to go faster. The district court imposed a fine of $50 and costs and five days in jail.

Judge Baker said he would let the fine stand as it was given in the district court, but would remit the jail sentence. It transpired that the defendant had only $30 with which to pay the fine and costs, and he asked the court if he couldn't leave what money he had and pay the rest at the rate of $5 per month. Judge Baker refused to place the bench on an instalment basis, but consented to continue the case until June 1, and Butler gave new bail in the sum of $500.

NEWPORT CASES HEARD.

In the supreme court in Providence Monday, before the full bench, Chief Justice Dubois presiding, the case of Elizabeth E. Underwood et. al. vs. the Old Colony Street Railway Company was heard and briefs submitted on the defendant's bill of exceptions.

A hearing was also had in the case of Frederick Frelinghuysen et. al., executors, vs. the New York Life Insurance Company et. al., before the supreme court in Providence, Chief Justice Dubois and Associate Justices Blodgett, Johnson, Parkhurst and Sweetland, briefs being submitted on a bill for the construction of the will of the late John N. A. Griswold. William McLeod appeared pro se and for certain respondents, Clark Burdick for certain respondents, and William Paine Sheffield for the New York Life Insurance Company.

THE NEW DIRECTORY.

As announced Monday, the canvass for the Newport Directory for 1910 has commenced, a corps of experienced men from the office of the Sampson & Murdock Company being now at work. They are all familiar with the city and expect the co-operation of all the citizens in making the new Directory the "best ever." Officials of churches, societies, lodges, etc., can aid in the work by being ready with their lists of officers.

Mr. Sterling, who has had charge of the business for more than 20 years, is detained for a few days through an accident, but is expected later.

NEW CAPS FOR STEAMBOAT OFFICERS.

All the officers on Fall River line steamers Commonwealth and Priscilla have received their new spring headgear, and the new caps were donned Sunday for the first time. A little change has been made from the regulation style which it has been the custom to wear, and now the officers have caps similar in design to those worn by ocean steamship employes. They are of high crown with narrow visor, and have a narrow strip of knotted gold braid at the front.

WATSON RESIGNS.

Retires as Treasurer of United States Rubber Company.

Native of Jamestown, Graduate of Rogers High School and Well Known Here.

John J. Watson, Jr., a native of Jamestown and well known in this city, Monday resigned from the treasurership, directorate and as a member of the executive committee of the United States Rubber Company. Mr. Watson announced his own resignation and declared that he had also severed his connection with the subsidiary companies of the corporation. He declined to explain his action or to comment upon it in any way. Other officers of the company took a similar stand, Colonel Samuel P. Colt, president of the company, when seen at the Metropolitan Club, New York, said he was not at liberty to discuss the resignation of Mr. Watson from the treasurership.

The resignation of Mr. Watson as treasurer and from the other positions came as a surprise, inasmuch as two years or so ago, when Colonel Samuel P. Colt, president of the United States Rubber Company, was ill, Mr. Watson was practically the head of the big corporation. Mr. Watson was elected president of the Rubber Goods Manufacturing Company, a branch of the United States Company, in November 1908, succeeding the late Charles H. Dale. He was succeeded last January by Elisha S. Williams. He was also elected president of the General Rubber Company, another subsidiary branch, at about the same time, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Colonel Colt. The two companies worked in close relation and it was believed that they might well be under the control of the same chief executive.

In the spring of 1904, when the permanent organization of the General Rubber Company, which handles all the crude rubber used by the various holdings of the United States Rubber Company, was effected, Mr. Watson was elected its treasurer and served in that capacity until his elevation to the presidency. Three years later, when the Rubber Goods Manufacturing Company, which makes rubber tires, druggists' goods and all kinds of rubber goods outside of footwear and operates eight or ten mills, was taken over by the United States Rubber Company Mr. Watson was made a director and treasurer.

He first became identified with the companies owned or controlled by the United States Rubber Company about nine years ago. He was then treasurer of the Joseph Banigan Rubber Company of Providence. In 1901, however, he became second assistant treasurer of the United States Rubber Company. Three years later he became treasurer of the United States Company and one of the biggest rubber men in the world. He was made a director of the corporation at the stockholders' meeting the following year.

Among the companies with which Mr. Watson is or has been connected as a director are the Joseph Banigan Rubber Company of Providence, Adams & Fort Company, Cleveland; American Card Clothing Company, Worcester; Otter Creek Boom & Lumber Company, West Virginia; the Woonsocket Rubber Company of Providence, the New York Belting & Packing Company, the Peerless Rubber Company, the Hartford Rubber Works Company, the Morgan & Wright Company, the Mechanical Rubber Company, the Mechanical Fabric Company, the Goodyear India Rubber Glove Company, the Indianapolis Rubber Company, the G. J. Tire Company and some eight or ten others, some subsidiary to the United States Rubber Company. He is a member of the New England Rubber Club.

Mr. Watson is a native of Jamestown and a son of John J. and Gertrude T. (Stanhope) Watson. He was born November 12, 1874, and received his education in the public schools of Jamestown and the Rogers High School in this city. Later he attended Bryant & Stratton's Business College in Providence and in 1892, upon graduation, entered the employ of the Industrial Trust Company of Providence, remaining with the company six years, when he left to become treasurer of the Joseph Banigan Rubber Company.

He became interested in the position of his home town and was moderator in 1897-8. He began his first three terms as representative from Jamestown in the General Assembly in 1899, and remained in the house until 1904. During this time he was a member of the committees on corporations and finance and several joint committees.

He was alternate at the national Republican convention in Chicago in 1904 and was for seven years a member of the State Board of Charities and Corrections.

MIDSHIPMEN PASS.

Statement That They Failed in Examination for Promotion Denied at Naval Academy.

The statement that all the members of the class of 1908 of the Naval Academy had failed to reach the required standard for promotion to the grade of ensign is denied at the Naval Academy. It is stated authoritatively that the number of failures in any branch is not larger than usual, and that there is no reason to believe that particular difficulty was experienced in any one subject.

Definite results are not given out, as the report of the Academic Board, which was forwarded to the Navy Department, has not been approved. However, that there was no unusual number of failures is asserted as a certainty. Members of the class took the examinations at their stations, the questions being prepared at Annapolis.
